DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election of the species of figure 2 is acknowledged.

Claims 2 and 4 to 21 therefore stand withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on November 1, 2006.

Claim Objections

Claims 1 and 3 are objected to because of the following informalities:

Claim 1 improperly recites alternative embodiments. That is, claim 1 recites "a refrigerant passageway that leads to a suction chamber or a discharge chamber of the variable displacement compressor" (emphasis added). However, in the elected species of figure 2, the refrigerant passageway leads only to a discharge chamber (pressure PdH). Claim 1 should be amended to read only on the elected species.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. There is no reference frame for “upstream” and “downstream”. That is, which direction is the upstream direction and which direction is the downstream direction?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Umemura et al (US 6,729,853). See figure 2 which shows a control valve for a variable displacement compressor having a first control valve CV2 and a second control valve CV1, and a solenoid 86. The second control valve CV1 senses differential pressure developed across the first control valve CV2 via lines 44 and 41. However, Umemura et al do not disclose that the control valves and the solenoid are integrally formed. To form the control valves and the solenoid of Umemura et al as an integrated structure is a matter of obvious engineering choice (In re Larson, 144, USPQ 347 (CCPA 1965); In re Lockhart, 90 USPQ 214 (CCPA 1951)). Furthermore, integrating the structure of Umemura et al results in a more compact arrangement which is desirable in vehicle engine compartments.

Claims 1 and 3 are also rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hirota et al (US 7,021,901). See figure 1 which shows a control valve for a variable displacement compressor having a first control valve 12 and a second control valve 14, and a solenoid 31. The second control valve 14 senses differential pressure developed across the first control valve 12 via lines 41 and 43. However, Hirota et al do not disclose that the control valves and the solenoid are integrally formed. To form the control valves and the solenoid of Hirota et al as an integrated structure is a matter of obvious engineering choice (In re Larson, 144, USPQ 347 (CCPA 1965); In re Lockhart, 90 USPQ 214 (CCPA 1951)). Furthermore, integrating the structure of Hirota et al results in a more compact arrangement which is desirable in vehicle engine compartments.
